My father is a *forester. *Forestry is the *major industry in Kumakogen. They *plant trees, *grow them and *harvest wood for houses. They also *take care of the forests. "We need to take care of the forests, or they will *die," my father sometimes says to me. If there are too many trees in the forests, the *sunlight doesn't *reach the *ground. Then the young trees can't grow and some animals can't live. Foresters are *saving *nature for our future.

I want to do something for my hometown, too, but to work in forests is hard *work for me. I want to grow *tomatoes. Tomatoes are one of the *major crops in Kumakogen. In the future, I want to use new *technologies *to grow tasty tomatoes, and I want to send them to the tables all over Japan.

What will you think of when you hear the word "Ehime"? Of course the answer will be "tomatoes from Kumakogen."
