2　次の英文を読んで、(1)～(4)の各問いに答えなさい。* がついている語については、(注) を参考にしなさい。

　　A long time ago, in a small village of Shikoku, there was a man who lived with his little daughter.　His name was Kanta, but he was *lazy, so people called him Namake-Kanta.　One day, Kanta's daughter became sick.　He had no *money for medicine.　So he visited the shoya, *village headman.　He said, "My daughter is very sick.　Please lend me some money to buy medicine.　I have no money at all."

　　The shoya said, "OK.　I'll lend you some money, but you have to *pay it back in one month."

　　Kanta bought the medicine, and his daughter *got well.　But he was so poor that he couldn't pay back the money.　So he went to the *wisest man in the village.　The man said, "How about talking with a *raccoon dog that lives on the *hill?　I hear the raccoon dog lends money to people who have no money."

　　Kanta couldn't believe it, but there was no other way.　So he climbed the hill, and found a hole on the hill.　It was the raccoon dog's house.　When Kanta asked the raccoon dog to lend him some money, the raccoon dog answered, "OK.　I'll help you. Go home and wait."

Next morning, Kanta found a lot of money in front of his house.　He was *relieved. "I can *pay back my debt."　He *returned the money to the shoya.

From that time Kanta worked hard to make money.　A month later he went to the raccoon dog's house to pay back the money.　He said, "Hello!" many times, but there was no answer.　He found a small *Buddha statue in the raccoon dog's hole.　He looked for the raccoon dog, but he couldn't find him.　Later a small temple was built on the *hillside.

Who *lent Kanta the money?　Where did the raccoon dog go?
